Risk and Insurance Services

Overview

Maritime transportation operations, which carry around 80 per cent of internationally traded goods, entail many risks. Vessels operate in harsh environments, equipment is capital intensive and increasingly technologically advanced, whilst relatively minor accidents at sea or in a port can have a serious impact on whole supply chains. Plus there is the ever-present threat of a maritime terrorist attack that could seriously disrupt world shipping and trade.

Asia controls more than 40 per cent of the global commercial fleet. In fact, over a quarter of the world's trade and oil goes through the Straits of Malacca. In the midst of rising threats, Asian businesses face uncertain market conditions, pricing and availability of coverage for such perils.

Jardine Lloyd Thompson has specialist knowledge of the sector's unique economic, regulatory, technological and physical challenges. Our Asian operations date back to 1836. Today, we are one of the most experienced insurance intermediaries in the region, serving an elite clientele comprising premier corporations, major international ship owners and operators.

The net benefits are improved risk management processes and reductions in associated time and costs.
